GETTYSBURG COLLEGE OPENS

WITH THE LARGEST FRESHMAN CLASS IN ITS HISTORY.

This Big Class Will Go into Intensive Military Training for Three Months.

Gettysburg College opened on Thursday with the largest Freshman class in its history. The class numbers about 300. The demand has been so great for admission that the institution was crowded to its capacity early last week and about the middle of the week notices began to be sent out that the capacity of the institution had been reached. This big class will go into intensive military training for at least three months, and if at that time any are sent away to camps, it is likely that other students will be sent here to be trained and this may keep up for the full school terms.

The life of the students will be entirely different from that of other years. It will be the military training life. All the students will occupy the dormitories. Even the town students must go into these barracks. The students will receive the soldiers' pay and receive uniforms and be led by the Government.

Arrangements have been made for the erection of a frame mess hall on the campus at the Gettysburg Academy. It will be 26 x 70 feet. Work has been started on the mess hall.

The official name of the body of students receiving the military training is Student Army Training Corps, which will be shortened in references to the same as S. A. T. C. They will drill each morning but Saturday and Sunday.

Lieut. John E. Carney will be in command of this corps. Lieut. Carney arrived on Monday from Plattsburg, where he was acting as military instructor. He sailed to France with the first lot of Pershing's men and has been twice gassed on the field of battle. Sergt. Allen will assist and there may be one other non-commissioned officer.

The students in the upper classes who have been exempted and those under military age will be a separate part of the college work and the military life will not apply to such students.

The following changes in the faculty have been made and the new professors are in attendance. James Rees Ewing, Ph.D., from McKendree College, succeeds Dr. J. A. Ashworth as Professor of Economics and Political Science.

Frank H. Clutz, Ph.D., from the Bethlehem Steel Co., succeeds Prof. Chester Allen as Professor of Civil Engineering.

George E. Funderberg, Ph.D., becomes the head of the Department of Romance Languages, succeeding Prof. W. S. Barney.

Rudolph Rosenstengel, M.E., of Cornell, succeeds Prof. S. R. Wing as Professor of Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

Prof. W. L. G. Williams, of Miami University, will act as Professor of Mathematics during the leave of absence of Dr. Lamond in Red Cross work.

Rev. P. R. Pontius is the new instructor in English, and Ailyn T. Deibert will act as assistant in French. Dr. Henry Stewart will assist temporarily in the Chemical Laboratory and D. E. Maxwell, '17, will be part time assistant in the Physics Laboratory.

McSherrytown's Big Event.

McSherrytown had a big time on Wednesday evening in unfurling a service flag from a pole in the park. The flag contained 85 stars and three red ones for Red Cross nurses. There was a big parade and band music. Rev. Fr. Reutter presided at the exercises and made the opening address. There were speeches by Rev. Wilbur M. Allison, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Rev. W. F. Boyle, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, Gettysburg, and Wm. McSherry, Esq., of Gettysburg. It was a great event for McSherrytown citizens who have good reason to be proud of the record of their boys in the service.

Flag with Twenty-nine Stars.

Conowago Chapel celebrated last Sunday afternoon the raising of a service flag with 29 stars. The exercises in front of the church were attended by 1000 people. The speakers were Wm. McSherry, of Gettysburg; Rev. Jerome Lawrence, of the Benedictine Order, and a chaplain of the Knights of Columbus. Twenty-nine young men of the Conowago Chapel parish are serving in the U. S. A.

Millersville to Have S. A. T. C.

Millersville State Normal School has received notice from the Government that a unit of the Student Army Training Corps will be established at that school this fall. Young men from eighteen to twenty-one who can offer thirteen units of high school work or its equivalent will be eligible. ## THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

HEADQUARTERS IN SQUARE IS A VERY BUSY PLACE.

To-day, September 28, the Drive Starts for Two Million Dollars in Adams County.

The county organization under Dr. Wm. A. Granville and his assistants have been busy for days preparing for the drive for the Fourth Liberty Loan. The allotment of Adams county will be about Two Million Dollars, which means that old Adams will have to do half as much more as in the Third Loan when we went over the top with a million and a third. That much and half that much more is over the top with the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Will Adams county go over the top? Just watch. Adams county boys are in Pershing's Army making the world a fit place to live. There have been a few supreme sacrifices, and a few have been wounded. They are going over the top giving all, risking all and surely it will never be said of the people of Adams county that they did not go over the top backing up our boys.

Read the thrilling call of President Wilson on 5th page, the space being donated by the three Gettysburg banking institutions. An advertisement will be found on 3rd page, and in subsequent issues will be found advertisements donated on a fifty-fifty basis by our merchants with the Compiler. ## Baldness Conquered

RECIPE MAILED FREE

A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried numerous tonics, lotions, shampoos, etc., without benefit, came across, while on a journey, an Indians' recipe by which he grew a complete crop of healthy, luxuriant hair that he now possesses.
Others—men and women—have reported remarkable hair growth by the same method. Whoever wishes the recipe may obtain it free by writing to John Hart Brittain, BA-222, Station F, New York, N. Y. Or obtain a box of the ointment, Kotalko, made according to the perfected recipe, at the drug store, ready for use.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

In a vast majority of cases, when hair falls out, the roots are not dead, but remain imbedded in the scalp, alive, like seeds or bulbs, needing only fertilizing. The usual alkaline shampoos, alcoholized hair tonics, etc., are of no avail in such cases. The Indians' ointment nourishes the hair and stimulates the growth.
Kotalko fertilizes the scalp and induces hair growth in every case possible; wonderful results reported. For men's, women's and children's hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try Kotalko. It is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until a prolific growth supercedes this hair or lets out this notice, show to others who want beautiful hair. The recipe is free. This is genuine.

They fight with their whole souls

You are reading every day of our boys over there—of Pershing's divisions charging into the blasting fire of the Boche trenches; of small detachments smashing their way from house to house through ruined villages; of single-handed deeds of sacrifice and valor.

One thought, one impulse only fills their souls—to fight and keep on fighting, until the war is won.

They know that all America is back of them; they know that they can count on us at home to send them all the guns and supplies they need to win.

There is only one way we can do it. All of us must work and save and buy Liberty Bonds, with our whole souls, the way our men are fighting over there!

No less will win. There is no other way to provide the money the Government must have. No other standard can make the Fourth Liberty Loan a Success.

COMPILER 100 YEARS OLD

PROF. J. HOWARD WERT REVIEWS HISTORY OF PAPER.

Telling Interesting Story of the Century Run of the Compiler.

In these years of rapid changes, when a newspaper has gone on the even tenor of its way for a century and is still fresh and vigorous, it must possess some inherent vitality that has rendered it acceptable to the people of the community which it serves.

This thought came up spontaneously as I gazed upon a copy of the "Compiler" which is now before me, much tattered and stained by time. And it has a right to be time-worn for it has been in the possession of the Wert family but eight months lacking of a century.

Although I have many copies of early issues of the "Compiler" amongst the Wert collection of old papers industriously made during a long life, I do not have a complete file of its earlier years, the oldest copy in my possession being the paper now before me, about which I propose to chat briefly.

It is Number 35 of Volume I, and bears the date of May 12, 1819. Of news, either local or general, it contains but little, as the term "news" is now understood; but it bears several very conclusive internal evidences of the difficulties under which an editor of the olden time labored. Of these I will speak later on, but first I wish to present a few facts about the early history of "The Compiler" which may be of interest to some of its readers.

"The Republican Compiler" was founded by Jacob Lefever, in 1818. It was established as an exponent of the political doctrines of Thomas Jefferson and his followers, their party being then known by the designation "Republican," as opposed to the "Federal" party of which John Adams was one of the leading spirits. The term "Democrat" only began to be used about this time in some of the States, and was then generally compounded with the old term "Republican" thus,—"the Democratic-Republican party." The "Compiler" carried the word "Republican" in its title till 1860. The confusion that would naturally arise from the use of this name in a Democratic paper that was opposing the new party in national politics called Republican, caused Henry J. Stahle to discontinue it.

The Federal party opposing Jefferson already had an organ in Gettysburg—"The Adams Centinel"—at the time that Lefever landed his Jeffersonian paper. The "Compiler" was well conducted from the first and soon became a power in the county, although the political principles it represented were in a minority, Adams county being a stronghold of Federalism.

But the Federal party soon disappeared from the national horizon, and amidst the many cyclonic changes and political upheavals of the few following years, one of the most noted was the formation of an ephemeral "Anti-Masonic" party of which Thaddeus Stevens was the acknowledged head, not only in Adams county, but throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Jacob Lefever, never himself a Freemason, fought Stevens' Anti-Masonic party tooth and nail. Stevens had him indicted for criminal libel and, as Stevens was all powerful in the Adams county of that day, Lefever was found guilty and sent to jail. From the prison he continued to edit his paper, his lieutenants in the printing office being his son, Isaac Lefever, afterwards for many years a prominent physician of Harrisburg, and Adam Wert, father of the writer of this sketch.

Early in the forties of the last century, the paper passed into the possession of Edwin Stahle, afterwards a member from Adams county, of our State House of Representatives. Edwin Stahle soon transferred the Compiler to his brother, Henry J. Stahle, an able and versatile editor and talker, and an aggressive political partisan.

When, in the fifties of the last century, the ephemeral "Know Nothing" wave caused wide rents in the old parties, the large Roman Catholic vote of Adams county, which had been almost entirely Whig, was transferred almost bodily to the Democratic party which thus obtained a mastery in Adams county which endured for many years.

Stahle now found himself at the head of a vigorous majority party and his paper became a greater power than ever. He never attended the county conventions held in the Court House, but a stone's throw from his office. Once when asked to do so, he replied, "No, I am not going into any of your fights. It's the business of you fellows to form the ticket. It's mine to elect it." Stahle was an absolute believer in party regularity and discipline.

After the battle of Gettysburg he was arrested charged with pointing out to the Confederates houses in which Union soldiers were concealed. After an imprisonment of a few weeks in Fort Mifflin, he was released with the charges against him dropped. Of the merits of the case I have no personal knowledge. I knew Henry J. Stahle intimately for many years, and always found him an upright, honorable gentleman. Whilst, on occasions, he fought me politically, he was at the same time a warm and generous personal friend, the soul of honor. This I do know, that I would not have hung a dead dog on the testimony of the person who made the principal affidavit against him, a certified copy of which affidavit is before me as I write.

Of the Compiler during recent years under the management of a member of the talented McClean family it is unnecessary to write. That is a matter of recent history known to all. But I trust that I may be permitted in this connection to digress from my main topic long enough to put on record a recollection of this same McClean family which is one of the most vivid and pleasing of the memories that come gleaming up through the long vista of the years.

When, as a rather uncouthly dressed country lad, I began attendance at the Preparatory Department of Pennsylvania College, I tramped each day up the Baltimore pike for three miles and along Baltimore street on my way to that institution of learning. Frequently, on pleasant mornings, Hon. Moses McClean would be standing on the front steps of his home on Baltimore street, near the Square. Invariably he would greet me pleasantly with—"Good morning, young man," and inquiries as to my father's health and my progress in my studies.

What! A man who had been a prominent member of Congress, and who stood at the head of the Adams County Bar interested in me! I do think that during all the arduous years of my struggle for an education I ever received any greater impetus to renewed exertion than I obtained from these kind greetings of Hon. Moses McClean. In later years it was my privilege to have the intimate acquaintance and warm friendship of Judge Wm. McClean and Rev. Robert F. McClean, worthy descendants of this noble sire.

"The Compiler" of May 12, 1819.

But it is time to drop these retrospective glances for a few words about the paper before me which is the text on which this communication has been based.

Nothing more forcibly illustrates the world's gigantic forward strides during a century past than the inspection of a paper one hundred years old, published at a time when the electric telegraph was unknown and steam had not yet been applied to hastening travel on either land or water. The latest European news is taken from a London paper of March 27th [only 45 days old]. This London paper has just learned of the cession of Florida to the United States by Spain, and is greatly exercised thereat, fearing that the war between the United States and England, which had ended four years before, might be renewed at any time, in which case Florida would give the United States a valuable base for military operations against the British West Indies.

The latest South American news is of the date March 10th [65 days old] having been brought from Buenos Ayres to New York by what we are told was a fast sailing ship. The principal feature of this news is that there were insurrections and revolutions going on in all parts of South America.

A commentary on the undesirable condition of the currency of the country is afforded by the fact that an entire column is devoted to giving the "Course of Exchange" for the banks of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. The notes of a very few are quoted as being at par. All the rest are quoted as being at a discount ranging from 1 or 2 to as high as 50 per cent.

The conditions of Adams county mail facilities of the day are illustrated by Mr. Lefever's announcement that "the Compiler" will be delivered to subscribers in the borough on Wednesday morning and forwarded to those in the county at the first opportunity."

Exclusive of a column of sheriff's sales, legal notices, and notices of approaching elections of officials for various turnpike companies, the paper contains just eleven advertisements. The local ones are those of Jesse Dochterman who opened a tobacco manufactory in Gettysburg and who lays great stress on the excellent quality of his snuff; David Little, in the watch and clock business; Daniel Burgosser, a tailor on Baltimore street; David Horner, jailor, who offers a reward of $50 for the arrest of an escaped prisoner whom he describes as a "Very desperate and dangerous man"; and J. B. McPherson who, as cashier of the Gettysburg bank, gives notice of a semi-annual dividend of three per cent.

Henry Keagy advertises the Middle Creek factory for carding, fulling and spinning wool, a form of industry found in those primitive days along every rural stream. James Hill advertises a Millerstown (Fairfield) tannery for sale. This, too, was a form of industry that was then found thickly dotted over Adams county, for those were the days when every head of a family, with the apocryphal of a family, with the apocryphal of sole and upper leather, deposited them with the family shoemaker, and then sent his youngsters to the shop to be measured for their winter footwear. A Latimore township man gives notice to the world that his wife Elizabeth "hath left my bed and board without my consent thereto: this is, therefore, to warn all persons against trusting her on my account." He neglects to state whether any person would be likely to trust him on his own accounts. Notices like the above were common features of the olden-time newspaper. That they are now obsolete is one credit mark at least to advanced civilization.

P. S.—Incidentally the foregoing communication may serve as notice to those still living of the hundreds of friends I met in fourteen years of educational work in old Adams as a teacher and county superintendent, that I am still in the land of the living, in full vigor physically and intellectually, and busy as can be, sixteen hours every day, with literary and other work.

BRITISH WIPE OUT TURKS

Allenby Captures 18,000 and Drives Beyond Nazareth.

Remnant of Crescent Forces Hurrying Across the Jordan, Where Arabs Wait.

London.—Nazareth, the holy shrine of Christian civilization—indeed, practically the whole of Israelitish Palestine—is in the hands of the British army, whose victory over the Turks is much greater than was reported a day or two ago. The Turkish army, although it was found to be larger than was expected, has been completely broken up, and the Christian powers are again in possession of the Holy Land.

More than 18,000 Turkish prisoners were taken west of the Jordan, with 120 guns, four airplanes and an immense amount of transport, railway rolling stock and locomotives. The total British advance from the start is 60 miles.

British cavalry are galloping toward the shores of the Sea of Galilee and are finding little left to oppose their sweep. No estimate has been made of the number of Turkish dead, but it is very large; the British casualties, on the other hand, are remarkably light. The Turkish losses are likely to be very much greater than the figure stated, as what is left of their army is in disorganized flight and the British have cut off all methods of egress except a few fords over the Jordan east of Nazareth. If they cross the river they will fall into the hands of the Arabs, who are waiting for them.

The battle provided one of the great cavalry rides of history. For 60 miles, perhaps more, the British rearmy, the Australian light horsemen and the turbaned Indian squadrons pressed swiftly forward, around and behind the fleeing Turks. Diverging squadrons thundered through the sacred valleys and over historical fields, that of Armageddon, for instance, in their dash for the railroads and the enemy supply centers and in their rush to seize the Jordan fords and roads.

The Haila-Belsan railroad is theirs with all the rolling stock on it; the main line to Damascus also is under their control. They hold all the good roads going north and the few roads still left to the Turks on the Jordan are not available for wheeled traffic. From the north the chances of getting help are very slim. The Arabs not only have cut the main Damascus railway line, but have occupied a considerable section of it.

FOE REFUSES TO FIGHT OUR MEN

Americans Unable to Overcome Enemy's Fear Even of Clash by Patrols.

PRISONERS ARE DESPONDENT.

Artillery Fire is Purely Perfunctory. German Command Accepts Situation in Lorraine and is Working Only on the Defensive.

With the American Forces in Lorraine.—Entrenched in the second lines of the Hindenburg system, the Germans along the front southwest of Metz appear to have accepted the new situation. The tactics they are employing are wholly defensive ones.

The Germans are carrying out a half hearted and seemingly perfunctory bombardment of the American lines. Even challenges by American and French patrols are refused by the enemy except where a conflict is inevitable.

Shells from German 77-caliber guns are reaching the American forward positions, while those from the 105's and the 150's are falling in the back areas. From time to time the shells reach points throughout the sector, but only at rare intervals does the enemy fire give the impression that a concerted effort is being made.

It would appear that the Germans are convinced that further attacks at an early date are improbable and that they themselves have neither the ability nor the heart to counter attack. The situation rapidly has become like that on old sectors, where both sides are content to harass each other day in and day out.

A bombardment that is heavy enough at times to be called a barrage is laid down early in the morning. It is followed by another some hours later. The remainder of the day is devoted to occasional shots and attempts against the active allied airplanes.

American observers, both aerial and those at fixed posts, report decreased activity behind the German lines. This is taken to indicate that the units battered in the American advance have been relieved by fresher troops.

Three of the five American airplanes lost in one day were those belonging to a bombing formation which dropped two tons of explosives on German troops near Mars-la-Tour, south of Conflans. The group was attacked by ten enemy machines. One German airplane dropped. Caught at a disadvantage, the Americans separated, and three of the planes were brought down in flames.

Four German prisoners have been brought in and delivered to the officers of the American intelligence department for interrogation without a shot having been fired. An officer and a patrol of 15 men were checked one night by wires which had been electrified. The patrol returned the next night with material to bridge the wires. It was raining, however, and the Germans had turned off the current.

The patrol crossed the wires, came to another wire and wandered through an abandoned communication trench until a sentry was encountered. One of the Americans, addressing the sentry in German, succeeded in obtaining the countersign before the sentry discovered the American's identity. With the sentry a prisoner, the patrol moved on until a second sentry was met. This German recognized the Americans and fled to his dugout. The Americans battered down the door and captured him and two of his comrades.

A certain American division which took more than its quota of prisoners has made an exhaustive examination of these letters and found that the morale, even of the men in the Tenth German Division—conceded to be the best opposing the Americans—is decidedly low. If it can be judged from private letters never intended for American consumption.

The Serbs make a twelve mile advance west of the Vardar and are within four miles of the important Uskub-Salonika railway.

British troops near La Bassée break up a German attack and around St. Quentin improve their positions in local fighting.

The Americans northeast of St. Mihiel in two raids gather in a large group of prisoners and leave many dead in destroyed enemy positions. From the American lines fires could be seen in Dommarin, inside the enemy lines, and there were indications of a further retreat.

The Germans were thrown back on the Hindenburg line, northwest of St. Quentin, after a desperate battle in which they lost three defending divisions, ten villages, 10,000 men and seventy big guns and the British gained all the high ground. The Serb success against the Bulgars is growing. On a front of 25 miles the advance has reached a depth of 15 to 17 miles and 10,000 prisoners are reported. In Palestine General Allenby has resumed his campaign by defeating the Turks between Rafa and the sea and pushing forward 12 miles.

METZ IS U. S. TARGET

Gunners Are Landing Their Missiles on German Territory.

Seven Privates Find Hun Seventy-five and Fire Fifty Shots "Toward" Metz Until Officers Stop Party.

With the American Armies in France.—The fortifications of the German stronghold of Metz have been under fire of American guns for the last five days. The first shot from these guns at the fortress was fired last Sunday. The firing has been at intervals since then.

In connection with this historic and important development in this sector it is now permitted to relate an interesting incident which occurred during the German retreat northward last week.

Seven American privates found a German "seventy-five" in the woods near Vigneulles. They had never seen one of these guns before and knew little of the intricacies of its mechanism and operation. There was plenty of ammunition near it, however, and one of them suggested that they "shoot up Metz."

At once the decision to do so was unanimous. They loaded the gun and one of them pulled the lanyard. "Boom!" sounded the first shot. They fired 50 shells before our officers discovered them.

It is one of the regrettable incidents of the operation here that we doubtless will never know where these shells struck. They knew the general direction of Metz, and most of the shots were aimed that way. However, they omitted the niceties of accurate range finding and fired north, northeast and northwest indiscriminately.

"We will bet you real money that Metz is in ruins by this time," one of them said to a sergeant when he found them.

Mr. Crowell Tells of Bombardment.

Washington.—The forts of Metz, the German stronghold in Lorraine, are under the fire of American guns of nine inch and larger caliber, members of the House Military Committee were told at their weekly conference with Benedict Crowell, acting secretary of war, and other war department officials.

Production of Liberty motors and of ordnance, particularly eight inch howitzers, is increasing, the officials said. The production of motors was said to have passed 7,000, of which 2,500 have gone to the navy and the allies.

Liberty motors now are being used in tanks.

TO STOP RUSSIAN TERRORISM.

Civilization to Halt Outrages of Bolshevik-Hun Partners.

Washington.—The capital is echoing approval of Secretary Lansing's appeal to the allies and neutral countries to interfere in the Russian reign of terror. American diplomatic representatives in allied and neutral countries will communicate the appeal to the governments. It is hoped that means will be found to communicate the views of civilization to the perpetrators of the present crimes.

REVENUE BILL PASSES HOUSE.

$8,000,000,000 Measure, Largest in History, Unanimously Adopted.

Washington.—By unanimous vote the house of representatives passed the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill, the greatest tax measure in history, with a cheer.

The roll call showed 350 members voting for the bill.

The bill as passed practically is unchanged from the form in which it came from the Ways and Means Committee September 3.

LIBERTY DAY IS SET FOR OCT. 12

All Citizens Urged to Celebrate 426th Anniversary of Discovery of America.

BIG HELP TO LOAN DRIVE.

Designed to Aid Sales of Bonds—Proclamation Requests Holiday for Federal Employees Who Can Be Spared From Work.

Washington.—President Wilson proclaimed Saturday, October 12, the four hundred and twenty-sixth anniversary of the discovery of America, as Liberty day and called upon all citizens to celebrate it, to stimulate a generous response to the fourth Liberty loan. His proclamation follows:

"Every day the great principles for which we are fighting take fresh hold upon our thought and purpose and make it clearer what the end must be and what we must do to achieve it. We now know more certainly than we ever knew before why free men brought the great nation and government we love into existence, because it grows clearer and clearer what supreme service it is to be America's privilege to render to the world. The anniversary of the discovery of America must therefore have for us in this fateful year a peculiar and thrilling significance. We should make it a day of ardent dedication to the ideals upon which our government is founded and by which our present heroic tasks are inspired.

Ask Aid for War Loan.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, do appoint Saturday, the twelfth day of October, 1918, as Liberty day. On that day I request the citizens of every community of the United States, city, town and countryside, to celebrate the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the fourth Liberty loan. Commemorative addresses, pageants, harvest home festivals and other demonstrations should be arranged for in every neighborhood under the general direction of the secretary of the treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty Loan Committee, in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Education and the public school authorities.

"Let the people's response to the fourth Liberty loan express the measure of their devotion to the ideals which have guided the country from its discovery until now and of their determined purpose to defend them and guarantee their triumph.

Holiday for United States Workers.

"For the purpose of participating in Liberty day celebrations all employees of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared may be excused on Saturday, the twelfth day of October, for the entire day.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the District of Columbia this 19th day of September, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-third.

"WOODROW WILSON,

"By the President,

"ROBERT LANSING,

"Secretary of State."

LABOR STANDS BY WILSON.

London Conference Adopts President's Peace Conditions.

London.—The spirit of America dominated the interallied labor conference and with only one dissenting voice it adopted President Wilson's 14 conditions for peace as a summary of labor's war aims. It also called upon the governments of the allied nations to adopt these principles in a joint declaration of policy.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

LONDON.—By a coup d'etat the rival faction in Archangel overthrew the government of the north. The allied diplomats and military commanders interfere and in two days restore the ousted government. American troops in the interim operated the street cars.

WASHINGTON.—Men in new draft will have the opportunity to enter the navy or marines.

VIENNA.—Three hundred and eighty-two persons, mostly girls, are killed in an explosion in a munition plant near Vienna, while many are wounded.

NEW YORK.—Spanish influenza is rapidly spreading among soldiers in training, with epidemics at Camps Devens, Upton, Dix and Lee. It is reported by medical authorities.

WASHINGTON.—Germany is crumbling with terror before the American advance, declares Senator James Hamilton Lewis on his return from France and England.

PHILADELPHIA.—New orders by the Emergency Fleet Corporation will drive all slackers from big ship yards. It is estimated that 20,000 of the 60,000 men at Hog Island alone are classed as draft evaders.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

Again the Government comes to the people of the country with the request that they lend their money, and lend it upon a more liberal scale than ever before, in order that the great war for the rights of America and the liberation of the world may be prosecuted with ever increasing vigor to a victorious conclusion. And it makes the appeal with the greatest confidence because it knows that every day it is becoming clearer and clearer to thinking men throughout the nation that the winning of the war is an essential investment. The money that is held back now will be of little use or value if the war is not won and the selfish masters of Germany are permitted to dictate what America may and may not do. Men in America, besides, have from the first until now dedicated both their lives and their fortunes to the vindication and maintenance of the great principles and objects for which our Government was set up. They will not fail now to show the world for what their wealth was intended.

The assortment is large. We planned it to meet every requirement of women who demand up-to-the minute styles combined with undeniable quality—who seek service rather than display. As such, ours is a thoroly representative stock, from which no worthy style-thought has been omitted.

Fortunately, makers with whom we have dealt for years were abundantly able to meet all our demands—they were as interested as ourselves in keeping up a reputation they had helped us to build.

We insisted on cloth-quality and exacted exceptional workmanship. Styles were abundant—but real old fashioned values were scarce.

Yet these makers had provided by advance orders for nearly adequate supplies for this season. With goods in stock they were able to undersell many of their rivals. Thus it happens that many prices are quite close to the old values which you must have thought were gone forever.

In every respect ours is a very remarkable showing—in point of variety, in point of real quality, in point of values which are not likely to be equalled anywhere.

The TABLETS are highly beneficial for gastric and intestinal indigestion, heartburn, acid or sour stomach, flatulence and gastric catarrh. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Gettysburg resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Geo. E. Stover, 147 Hanover St., says: "About a year ago I had trouble with my back and kidneys. There was stiffness and a bearing-down ache just over my hips. My kidneys acted too often after the slightest cold. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got some at the Peoples Drug Store. Doan's quickly gave me fine benefit. I haven't had to use any kidney medicine since and I believe the results are permanent."

A Matter of Money

By LINCOLN ROTHBLUM

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Gloria was as delectable a bit of femininity as one could find at the fashionable resort of Northhar. Barely five feet five in her French-heeled boots, she had a most alluring manner of looking into your eyes as if your every gesture were precious to her. Despite the adoration paid her, she remained lovable. But beyond these apparent facts, little was known of Gloria Stanley, who came every year to this resort and, to all appearances, plentifully supplied with money. Always dressed in good taste, with no little variety in her costumes, it is not to be wondered that she excited the admiration of the women as well as the men.

And now the summer colony was agog with excitement—for Gloria had met her "hero." And this is the way it happened:

Arising one morning earlier than the other guests, she slipped into her bathing suit and ran lightly across the stretch of sand, fairly quivering with suppressed excitement and pleasure of her anticipated plunge. Pausing a moment on tiptoe at the edge of the pier to drop her bathrobe and judge her dive, she stretched her arms obliquely downward and sailed through the air, cleaving the water like an arrow. In a moment her straight body could be seen skimming close to the surface, then suddenly it stopped as if it had struck a barrier. And there arose above the water two heads, more shocked than hurt by the contact.

"I'm so Sorry."

"I'm so sorry," Gloria spluttered, as she tread water. "I didn't see you before I dove off."

"Mighty careless of me to be in the way," laughed the young man, with a most engaging smile, as he swam close by in a very professional manner. "I hope you're not hurt."

"Not a bit," she responded, smiling back at him, and as a moment's afterthought, "let's race to shore."

Taking his compliance as granted, she commenced to augment the distance between them with broad, embracing strokes. He let her keep in the lead until but a few feet from shore, then swiftly caught up to her, so that they emerged in unison.

"You swim well," he said, breathing hard. "I didn't think I'd have to work so hard to catch up."

And, although Gloria couldn't account for it, she felt flattered by this stranger's praise. Out of the corner of her eye she saw a stalwart man—just a little different from any other she had ever met before.

"Let's race," she suggested, stretching at full length on the sand, which had just begun to reflect the warmth of the sun now well up in the heavens.

He sat down beside her, hands spread about his knees. It was as if they were old friends and she had said, "Let's play." He entered into the spirit.

"My name's John Turner, he ventured by way of conversation, "but most folks call me Jack. What's yours?"

"My name is Gloria Stanley, but most folks call me Gloria," she mimicked, her blue eyes twinkling merrily. "The swimming at the hotel. When did you come?"

The young man hesitated.

"Oh, I'm here at the hotel," he answered hurriedly. "I'm camping on the other side of the lake. That hotel and my pocketbook, don't hitch."

As if to avoid the personal trend his remark had given to their conversation, he continued: "But you must be hungry. Hadn't you better go for breakfast?"

Gloria arose and shook the wet sand from her suit. "Won't you come, too?" she asked abruptly, as if against her better judgment.

"No, no," he hastily responded, "my breakfast is waiting for me across the lake."

With serious formality they shook hands, and Gloria turned toward the hotel veranda, where already could be seen the ever-watchful ladies missing nothing of the scene enacted before them.

The next morning, as if by telepathic understanding, Gloria was at the water's edge at the same hour and in the same costume as the day before. Nor was she disappointed to find the young man already on hand. In the bottom of a canoe lay a neat bundle of wearing apparel.

"Thought I'd row across this morning so I could bring my clothes, and after we have our dip, I'd like to accept yesterday's invitation," and as the questioning look left her face, he added: "I'm camping by myself—and it's lonesome."

"Bully," she cried, striking her palms together man-fashion, "and then it'll be tennis after breakfast?"

Quite naturally he took her hand as they waded into the water until the depth permitted swimming. That morning they raced beneath the water, springing above the waves like flying fish, diving in every conceivable position—and in all the young man executed, the girl gamely followed suit. Tired and breathless, they floated on their backs toward shore. And the porch dowagers shook their heads ominously as the laughter of the two figures chasing each other up and down the sand, came faintly to their ears.

But neither were prepared for the change clothes made. He had not quite expected to see this boyish girl transformed into the vision standing before him, just a trifle taller in the low-heeled tennis shoes; nor, it must be admitted, had Gloria anticipated the very good impression this white flannel man seemed to be making upon the hotel guests who chanced to see him. And although such admiring glances, ill-concealed, did not displease her, she was wondering if the others noticed how carefully his finger ran down the price column of the bill of fare. But his seeming parsimony did not mar the ten wonderful days they swam, romped and played together—a very brief span of time indeed as the hourglass goes, but a sweet eternity of delight to the two who had found companionship in one another.

It was a sun, barely two hours awake, which looked down upon the sorrow of their parting.

"Gloria," the young man finally spoke, "these days have been like a wonderful dream to me. I must wake up now."

"Do you want my address?" she tearfully and practically asked.

"No," he murmured, and turned away.

Gloria gasped. His answer was entirely unprecedented in the annals of love-making.

"Did you say 'no,' Jack?" she repeated, incredulously.

He turned around and held out his hand. "Trust me, little girl," he softly asked, "wait for me one year. Will you?"

Quite uncomprehendingly, Gloria shook his hand. Head bent, she turned toward the hotel. And though her heart told her that Jack belonged to no other, her reason bade her forget how very much he had come to mean to her.

Fall, winter and spring came and went, and with summer arrived Northhar's perennial colonists. Gloria, with a charming array of new frocks, appeared as cheerful, winsome and pretty as ever, but exhibited a listless attitude toward her favorite recreation of swimming.

On the third day of her stay, Gloria arose earlier than the other guests and made her way to the lake. As if to leave all her cares behind, she dove from the pier with a high spring and came up—in the arms of Jack Turner.

"Jack!" she exclaimed, trying to free herself from his tight embrace.

Defiantly he tucked her in the crook of his left arm, and striking out powerfully with his right, in a few moments stood her on the sand. Pleasure at his presence and indignation at his conduct fought for control.

"Gloria!" he commanded, and a wonderful happiness danced in his eyes. "Will you marry me?"

Gloria gasped. "Then you're not already married?"

"Of course not. What put that idea into your head?"

"Well, why did you leave me that way last summer?"

"A man without money can't ask a girl who can afford the luxuries of this hotel, to marry him, can he?"

"No."

"So all winter I've had my shoulder to the wheel, and," he added, nervously, "if you're willing, I can give you the luxuries you are accustomed to."

"But, dear boy," she laughed delightedly, "I'm just a poor, foolish stenographer who spends her winter savings in two extravagant weeks!"

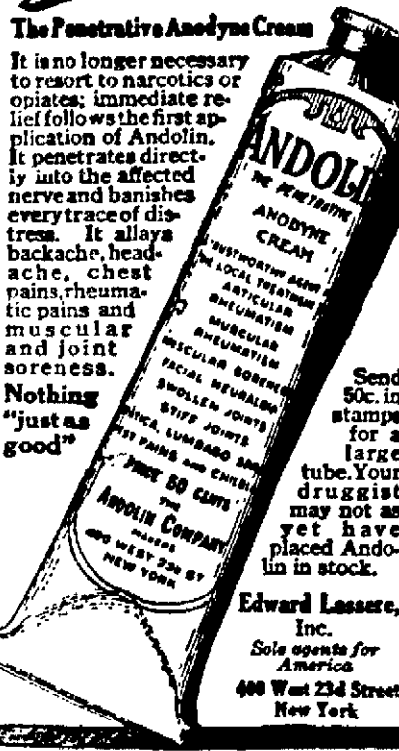

Big Collie Is Chauffeur.

Gear-shifting, of course, is outside the limits of possibility for him, but except for this operation a big collie, owned by a Longbecker (N. Y.) automobile dealer, is able to drive a motorcar. Everbody along "auto row" in New York city was completely dumfounded not long ago when the dog acted as chauffeur for his master, while weaving in and out through Broadway's traffic. However, the owner had an auxiliary control at hand to help the animal out of tight places and avoid the danger of a mishap. But on ordinary occasions when congested streets do not have to be negotiated the collie drives along like a man, turning corners and avoiding other vehicles with surprising facility. On such rides his master sits beside him, or in the tonneau behind. On a track, where the chance of accident is eliminated, the dog drives along with nobody in the car to help him. No special device is fixed to the steering wheel to assist him.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
